

Crime in Bucks Continually on the Increase, Jailer Reports

In his annual report of the Bucks County Prison and the activities at the prison in 1952, Earl D. Handy, jailer, states that "crime in Bucks County is continually on the increase." His further observations are that upon several occasions the county prison at Doylestown has been congested. The prisoners did more work outside of the institution than ever before for the county.

There were 735 committed to the county prison of which 33 were females. The 735 committed was 68 more than in 1951 and 194 more than in 1950.

Handy's complete report follows:

In order that the citizens of Bucks County may have a general picture of the activities of the Bucks County Prison and the maintaining of the institution for the year 1952, the following is a brief summary of inmates committed and discharged, work performed both inside and outside the prison and other items of interest.

All reports requested or required by the State of Pennsylvania, the Pennsylvania State Board of Parole, the State Department of Welfare, the County of Bucks, Police and Federal Departments of other Counties and States have been prepared and submitted as requested. The County prison has been inspected regularly by the Grand Jurors, the County Commissioners, the State Prison Inspectors, and visits made by the members of the Prison Society. The reports have been previously publicized in the newspapers by the Grand Jurors.

During the past year the County Commissioners have been contacted in regards to the enlarging of the prison, since the population of the County is steadily on the increase. The yearly report has been made to the County Commissioners giving the list of all prisoners committed, by whom committed, reason for commitment, and date of commitment, also the length of each inmate's sentence.

Several times during 1952 the prison was filled to its capacity so that it became necessary to transfer inmates to another institution to aid in relieving the congested condition. At this time I would like to thank the Court and the County Commissioners who approved the transfer of inmates.

In 1952 five strand of electric wiring were placed atop of the outer prison wall. Also these same type wires have been placed from

Wilson (right), of Lahaska, county radio officer, sends a message to one of 35 stations in operation throughout Bucks Co. The equipment is at present on an emergency temporary setup, but when completed will consist of three transmitters and seven receivers. Civil Defense Radio System Being Installed

Organizing and Operation of Dep't Has Been a Difficult Task

By Mitchell C. Hodges

Intelligencer—
Courier Feature Service
Organizing and operating the radio department of the Bucks County Civil Defense setup has been no fast or easy task.

You can take the word of Stuart A. Wilson, Lahaska, for that statement. Mr. Wilson, an engineer at the Naval Air Development Center, Johnstown, is county radio officer for the County's Civil Defense.

He is in charge of all radio operations in the Bucks County Civil Defense Net, plus liaison with the other counties and with Harrisburg, where the control center is located.

"It has taken the best part of two years to get our radio department started," declares Wilson. "For over a year, our radio operation here has been carried on without a station."

Equipment Put In Recently
The equipment was finally put in about a month ago. There is now a transmitter, with 150 watts output, in the communications room in the office of Civil Defense in the Bucks County Office Building basement.

This transmitter was assembled

Warrington Garage Man Is Being Sued for $2,207 In One Suit

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 8 — Two civil actions, one in which a Warrington garageman is being sued for $2,207, and the other in which a Perkasi motorist is being named the defendant in a two-car auto damage claim, have been filed in the Court of Common Pleas, here.

Joseph Kosak, Jr., Warrington, trading as Joe's Garage, has been named in an action in trespass as the defendant by Henry J. Heyer and Howard B. Solomon, trading as Heyer & Solomon, 901 East 22nd st., Chester, for damages amounting to $2,207.67.

The plaintiffs allege, in a statement of claim filed in the Prothonotary's Office, here, that Jan. 29, 1952, their truck was being operated along Old York road, five miles north of Hatboro, and it became stuck. The plaintiffs allege that the defendant damaged their truck, while towing it, damaging the "fifth wheel" and causing other damages.

Paul R. Landis, 210 South Fifth st., Perkasi, has been named the defendant in an action in trespass by American Motorist Insurance Co., 12 South 12th st., Phila., but the amount of damages were never stipulated in the statement of claim.

The Past and The Future

Reams of Paper Would Be Required to Properly Assess Impact of "Big Steel" on Bucks Real Estate Market, Says Realtors Board President

This the ninth in a series of interviews with officials of municipalities in Lower Bucks County concerning accomplishments and those playing a part in its great expansion in 1952 and the outlook for 1953. In boroughs, the presidents of councils were asked to list accomplishments in 1952, and the burgesses were requested to give the outlook for 1953. In Townships, the head of the supervisors or president of commissioners were interviewed.

By Richard W. Fechtenburg, (President, Bucks County Board of Realtors)

To properly assess the terrific impact on the real estate market here in Lower Bucks County because of the coming of Big Steel to this area—for the year just ended and for 1953—would take reams of paper and thousands of words. Suffice it to say that the acreage price of land went up and up during 1952 until the average per acre price was around $1700 and whether or not that average will hold for 1953 is something that I for one will not try to predict. I am talking primarily of land, now, not dwellings on small lots. If the predictions made by the experts are true and the many satellite industries follow "Big Steel" to lower Bucks county, no one knows what the future will bring in the way of prices for land. Because of the huge slices of lower Bucks county land purchased by Mr. Levitt, the Danhurst Corporation and other developers, and still being purchased, the available land with frontage on good, through roads is fast disappearing and the old rule about supply and demand cannot help but boost prices again. Suppose some company planned to build a half-million dollar plant and needed 25 acres of land, I can see that in such a case $500, or even $1000, per acre more or less would not mean much to such a company if it had definitely decided

Intense Heat Delays Search for Plane Victims

Seattle—Intense heat kept rescuers from probing the wreckage today of a four-engine DC-4 transport plane with seven persons aboard which crashed and burned near Seattle. Aboard the plane were a crew of four and a Long Beach woman and her two sons.

Snow and Freezing Winds Stall Search

Bear Lake, Idaho—Freezing winds stacking treacherous snow drifts across the wilds of Idaho stalled a search today for a missing C-46 transport plane with 37 Korean war veterans and a crew of three aboard. The plane was flying from Seattle to bases in the south and was last heard from over Malad City, Ida., in mid-afternoon yesterday.

South Koreans Blast Communist Tunnel

Seoul—Infantrymen and engineers of the South Korean army blasted a tunnel dug by Communist troops under an Allied-held hilltop and inflicted 61 casualties in a daring raid Wednesday night. The exploit was revealed today as other Allied troops repulsed new Red thrusts in four sectors while fresh air blows wrecked enemy supply and rail installations far to the north. The ROK soldiers, carrying TNT, crept into a tunnel being dug by North Korean Reds into the base of Anchor Hill, killed three Communist guards, then waited until 44 North Korean soldiers entered the tunnel. Then the South Koreans detonated 200 pounds of TNT, smashing the underground structure. All of the North Koreans were killed or wounded.

Judge Orders Mistrial; Juror is Withdrawn

Case of Pennel Contracting Firm is Continued Pending Agreement

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 8 — Judge Edwin H. Satterthwaite yesterday in Common Pleas Court, here, directed a mistrial, ordered a juror withdrawn and the case continued pending an agreement or settlement in the trial of a Pennel general contracting firm which was being sued for $1,150.

The plaintiffs are Thomas J. and Mary E. Hoffer, 110 Neshaun, Pennell, who were suing Robert W. Rothenbach and Anthony Vizzini, trading as Rothenbach & Vizzini, Lincoln highway, Pennell.

In a statement of claim, filed in May, 1951, the plaintiffs alleged their claim was for $1150, growing out of a dispute concerning the construction of a one-story bungalow at 110 Neshaun, Pennell.

The plaintiff-husband, Thomas J. Hoffer, was the sole witness. Testimony was taken Tuesday afternoon with court recessing at 4:29 that afternoon.

Joseph M. Leib, a member of the Philadelphia Bar, was admitted, upon motion by Lee B. Lansbury, counsel for the defendants, to practice pro hac vice.

Between 10 o'clock yesterday morning and 11:30, following the presentation of more evidence and conferences, counsel on both sides decided to reach and agreement pending a settlement.

Judge Satterthwaite, after thanking the jury for its service rendered this January term of civil court, dismissed it for the term.

Retiring Fire Chief Gives Report of Fires

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Jan. 8 —With William R. Sterner presiding, the monthly meeting of Union Fire Co. was conducted Tuesday evening in the fire station.

Retiring Fire Chief Ernest Belmont presented the following report of calls for December: four field fires, one oil stove, one fire which included both house and field.

Construction of the George Taylor School in Crofton is practically assured as bids for construction came in under the state estimate last night at Delhaas high school.

The needs can now be seen for a bond sale of more than $2,000,000 to finance the construction of both the George Taylor school and the addition that will make the Delhaas high school a complete junior-senior high school for 1200 students.

Low base bids for construction of the George Taylor school totaled $271,887. Bids, opened by Albert C. Smith, secretary of the Bristol Township School District Authority, showed low base bidders as follows: General Construction, Wintz Bros., Phila., $196,210; Heating and Ventilating, Willard Sales and Service Co., Phila., $25,950, qualified, with a unit price for rock excavation of $20.00 per cubic yard; Plumbing, James Mulderig, Phila., $26,297; Electrical work, William J. Kast Co., Wynecote, $20,900; Draperies, Paramount Decorating Co., $2500.

Following the opening of the bids by Smith, township school board president J. Russell Straub called for a closed meeting.

Present at the closed session were the township school board, the school authority, Joseph Wigmore, architect for the George Taylor School, Albert C. Mickelwright, architect for the Delhaas addition, Leo Dolph and John L. Bradbury, of Dolph and Co., financial advisors to the board.

When the session re-opened the Authority voted to accept the recommendation of the board that contracts for construction of the school be drawn up, thereby paying the way for construction to start almost immediately after the bonds are sold. The contracts will be signed following the bond sale.

A closed meeting of the Authority is scheduled to be held Monday night, January 19, when, according to Smith, the Authority will meet with its financial advisors.

Last night's bid opening was the second required for the school. A

SWEET PRIVACY

It is necessary to view with a certain amount of alarm a new device which has the potentialities of interrupting a man's surcease from toil, however it is being spent, and returning him to his chores. They call it a "Walkie Hearie", which only partly defines its rather devastating effect on a man's peace of mind and his privacy.

Doctors, attorneys and assorted businessmen around New York City are carrying a device about the size of a pack of cigarettes in their pockets. Now and then it goes "peep peep" in a sort of code which means the listener is being paged. By phoning a central paging service he can find out who wants him and why.

Many businesses feel this personal paging service, which involves a tiny receiver and a central transmitting station, is tops. The idea may spread to the Midwest and the Pacific Coast as soon as federal frequency clearances can be obtained. Which brings up the subject of personal privacy and the assaults thereon.

Until the advent of this newest of man's brainchildren a politician could relax on a trip by rail between Washington and New York—citing this merely as an example. But now most of the fast trains have telephone service and like as not his office will be calling him before he can say five per cent.

More telephones are going into automobiles and more helicopters are flitting about, to the dismay of gals who go the whole way for sunbathing. The circle is slowly closing—even upon the man in the privacy of his living room, for he can be reached by television.

Obviously, man needs some demon defenders of personal privacy.

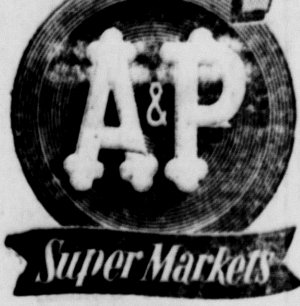

LOP-SIDED ASTEROIDS

Science has been learning more about asteroids lately, but the new knowledge doesn't make them more attractive. On the contrary. When little was known about them except that they are tiny planets, ranging from possibly 500 miles to less than a mile in diameter, imagination could run riot.

Later it became evident that nobody could possibly hope to live on an asteroid. No atmosphere, no water. A man on an asteroid would weigh less than a mouse on earth, which would take some getting used to. He would be able to jump hundreds of feet into the air and float down to a gentle landing, which sounds like fun.

But discoveries made by astronomers in 1952 have made such dreams even more fanciful than they previously were. Asteroids had been assumed to be, like the larger planets and moons, roughly spherical in shape. They aren't. Most of them turn out on closer examination to be hunks of broken rock, turning over and over every few hours. The very thought of it is enough to make an imaginative man seasick.

George Taylor School

cost for the school of $365,187 was not approved by the board at that time because it exceeded the state approved figure of $318,000 for cost of the school according to Clarence Young.

Since then the school has been re-designed to bring the cost of construction down. Cubic footage cost of bids received last night amounts to $1.01, according to Wigmore.

Wigmore stated the "essential changes" in the design are from a steel and concrete roof for the building to a wood frame structure; reduction in length of the bus loading platform; "several minor changes that don't affect the function of the building."

The school according to Director Howard C. Taylor will be located on a site approximately 22 acres at Summit Avenue near Tulip Street. Wigmore stated that the building will incorporate eight self-contained classrooms with lavatory facilities for each classroom; administrative office; teachers room; health room; storage rooms; multipurpose room with cafeteria, kitchen, storage room, lavatories for adults in conjunction with the multipurpose room, parking space for cars. It will accommodate 240 students of the fifth, sixth and seventh grades he said. One feature of the building is the parabolic design of the classrooms.

The state-approved structure cost estimate for the school is $273,320, according to Young.

Civil Defense Radio

and put together by Mr. Wilson. Eventually, there will be two transmitters here and seven receivers. Harrisburg is going to supply an emergency supply unit, gasoline powered, with an output of 4 kilowatts. This would be used if local electric power failed.

Mr. Wilson, who for three years was in the War Emergency Radio Service in World War II in Delaware County, says he would like to get news of his present radio unit before the public.

Need More Personnel
"We need to enlist more of the proper personnel. We still need all the radio amateurs we can get. We want to hold classes, one night a week, for persons interested in radio as a hobby, to give them enough training so they can secure an amateur radio license."

For civil defense purposes, Pennsylvania has been divided into Western Central and Eastern sections. The net control station for Eastern is located in Broomall, on the West Chester Pike, about five miles from 69th Street, Philadelphia.

Many Bucks County Stations
This station, W3BFF, is operated by Paul D. Mercado. The station now in Doylestown is called W3FUY, while the net control station is W3SSU in Chalfont, operated by Elwyn M. Mulherin.

Some of the other Bucks county stations are:
OXQ—Vernon Kroemer, Almont; W3NC—Elwood Smith, Sellersville; W3KBB—Carl A. Fischer, Croydon; W3MAG—Wilson H. Sterner, Sellersville; W3TDE—Raymond Bilger, Telford; W3QEP—Samuel Katz, Bristol; W3EM—Bradley Algeo, Jr., Solebury; W3CZM—Robert M. Welsh, Jr., Langhorne; W3NA—Paul Pearsall, Perkasie.

"Each county is a net within itself. Any major political subdivision in a county, with the permission of the county civil defense, may have their own net. The only one we have in Bucks county is station W3FNL, Morrisville, operated by Joseph T. Piechowski."

Expect 35 Stations Eventually
It is expected that eventually there will be thirty-five stations in Bucks county. At the moment, there are fifteen mobile units in the county. There is W3HFD, at Spring Valley, run by Frank Fenimore, there are two in Chalfont and one in Sellersville.

These mobile units have been set up so they can speed to the scene of a disaster.

"As I see things now," said Mr. Wilson, "our civil defense radio setup is not as good as the one in New York state, but it's better than ones in many other states."

"Now, in case of an emergency, we could get on the air and start to the scene of trouble within twenty minutes."

Eastern Net Meets Soon
There are thirteen counties in the Eastern Net. The next meeting of this group will be held in Allentown on January 31st. There will be a banquet followed by a business meeting.

Mr. Wilson says the purpose of this meeting will be to coordinate activities of different counties, discuss drills, set up frequency locations and plan further what to do in an emergency.

The Doylestown station now goes on the air on Sunday mornings at 9 for one hour. On Monday nights, it will go on the air at 8 o'clock in the evening. The first hour will be on the Bucks county net and the second will be on the inter-county net.

To Cooperate With N. J. Counties
One of the next steps will be to start cooperation with some of the New Jersey counties.

All civil defense radio activities are under control of the Federal Communications Commission. The procedure has been legal as of last August the fifteenth.

All persons who act as operators must have a special license provided by the F. C. C.

Delhaas School Closing Due to Non-Delivery of Oil

The closing of the Delhaas high school Tuesday afternoon because of lack of heat was discussed at last night's meeting of the Delhaas Joint School Board at the high school on Rogers road.

Reason given by the board for the lack of heat was that the fuel oil supplier's truck broke down. Methods of coping with such situations were discussed according to board secretary Clarence Young.

Young added that the board had discussed the athletic insurance program at the school. A further topic was the fact that the Delhaas four-room addition will not be completed "for about six weeks." Young stated. He gave the reason for the delay in construction as "labor problems."

FURNITURE COVERS — About 100 pieces left in stock. Colors aren't too bad—not too good, either. We may have trouble getting together a set for you but we'll try—and we'll give you 30% off. Not too bad, eh? Ask a saleswoman to show them to you—as they will not be on display.

BATES SPREADS—An advance purchase we made several months ago of a discontinued pattern. All perfect. All new. Blue, rose, green. Twins and full sizes, $4.95. Reg. $6.95.

CHAIR PADS—We don't stock them any more—these are just a few we crammed into the stock room to make space for something else. A limited quantity at 19c.

TOWELS—Ordered for August White Sale. Arrived only two months ago. Meadow green only. These sell for $1.75 regularly but we bought them at reduced prices by accepting meadow green only. A towel that will last for years—and at this low price—gosh!—99c.

TOWELS—Some faded window samples — some soiled — but good enuf to wash and dry Junior's pup at 19c.

SOFA PILLOWS — We bought dozens of them—You bought them all. We bought them again — YOU DIDN'T — we're stuck with 'em. Were $2.00—buy them now for $1.33.

DAMASK TABLECLOTHS — White and colors. A lovely table setting. And no one can guess that you only paid $1.36. Whatta buy! — Regular $2.00.

LINENS

We are grateful to Thee, dear God, for the challenge facing us in our daily lives. Help us to contribute in some small way to the betterment of the world. When we encounter difficulties and hardships keep us from rebelling against them and teach us to use our obstacles as wings by which we rise to a fuller and happier and more useful life. We ask it in Christ's name. Amen.

NEWS OF THE LEVITTOWN COMMUNITY

Harmonicist Sees Kids As Radio and TV Stars

Levene Gives Lessons To Children and Adults In Community

By Staff Reporter

LEVITTOWN, Jan. 8 — Your child is a potential radio or television star in the eyes of Irwin Levene, of 26 Sugarmaple lane. Levene, an instructor in the harmonica, sees big opportunities in show business for those who master that instrument.

"For any child who is really interested, there is a big field in harmonica playing," Levene says. "Today you can count the good harmonic players on the fingers of one hand."

Levene, who moved here August 20 with his wife, Harriet and their two children, is giving harmonica lessons, in his spare time, to several Levittown youngsters and to some adults.

He has been playing the mouth organ since he received one at the age of 15, ten years ago, in New York. A window dresser for Crawford Clothes, Levene moved from New York to Phila. three years ago.

Levene estimates that he has owned 50 harmonicas in his lifetime. "I won a Marine Band harmonica at a New Year's party," he says.

"I tried to teach myself to play it, and didn't get very far. Then I searched New York high and low for a teacher, and finally found an elderly man in the East New York School of Music, Brooklyn, who gave me lessons."

Levene joined the Navy during World War II. Assigned to the Fleet Marines, he played in a harmonica band at Camp Lejeune, S. C., and was in some shows there.

"When I got out of the service, I bought a Hohner '64' for $50 dollars, he continues. "I was in a small band that played in cabarets. I gave lessons in New York and later in Phila. In New York some of my pupils played in school assemblies and appeared on the radio."

Levene would like to start a Levittown harmonica band, he says, but finds it difficult because everybody wants to play the melody and nobody the harmony.

"I have some adult students now," he says, "and they all want

A series of Articles Introducing the New Residents of Levittown to The Community.
(By Staff Reporter)

LEVITTOWN, Jan. 8 — Despite the fact that William D. O'Donnell and his wife, Louise, were active in the Stevenson-for-President campaign last Fall, and his mother, a former Republican party worker, was pulling for "Ike," number 2 Edgewood lane, where they live, remains a peaceful household.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Donnell, and his mother, Mrs. Marie Ellis, moved here Dec. 20 from Camden, N. J. Mr. O'Donnell organized support for the Democratic candidate in Camden, assisted by his wife, Mrs. Ellis worked for the G. O. P. in Camden voting places for several years. She was twice widowed. Mr. Ellis was a detective on the Camden Police Force.

Mr. O'Donnell, a veteran of 4½ years' Army service during World War II, was one of the organizers of the Camden Chapter of the American Veterans Committee, and became New Jersey State vice-commander of that organization. He was active in a drive to rid the A. V. C. of alleged red elements within its ranks.

As a paper box salesman for the Edward J. Schoettle Co., he covers the Penna. and Trenton area.

A business deal he made with Dr. Frank Dudley, head of the Franklin Manufacturing Co., Westmount, N. J., resulted in an interesting job for Mrs. Ellis. Mr. O'Donnell sold the scientist boxes in which to wrap "flying saucer" kites he invented and manufactured.

Dr. Dudley received a Navy contract to make weather targets, to be flown in balloons, and hired Mrs. Ellis to help assemble them. The job was finished shortly before she and the O'Donnells moved here.

Now Mrs. Ellis is looking for a job as baby sitter in Levittown. She has raised three children of her own, and two grandchildren. She is also looking for some Levittown Lutherans, whom she would enjoy going to church with.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Donnell have recently begun painting in oils as a hobby. Another pastime they enjoy together is archery. Mr. O'Donnell plans to try his luck at hunting with a bow and arrow. All three members of the household often play cards together.

Mrs. Ellis and her son are both natives of Camden. Mrs. O'Donnell was born in Mt. Lebanon. She used to be a secretary for the Radio Corp. of America, in Camden. The family has a pedigree collie dog, Dutchess.

LEVITTOWN, Jan. 8—Ralph L. Howell and his wife, Doris, of 23 White Spruce lane, are from Pennsylvania, N. J., but their dog, Colonel, is a Floridian. They got Colonel, a black-white crossbreed of cocker spaniel and terrier, in Florida several years ago.

The Howells moved here from Pennsylvania Nov. 7. Mr. Howell is originally from Newport News, Va., and his wife from Bethlehem. A Navy veteran of World War II, he is now an electrician at the U. S.

was through, with double tonguing."

"Double tonguing" is the use of the tongue by harmonicists to get special effects. Levene teaches that to his pupils right from the start, and also shows them "tone shading," done by covering the harmonica with the hands.

"Within a month the average child can play the harmonica from sheet music in the key of 'C', Levene says. "In six to eight months, if he keeps practicing, he will be good enough to play popular and semi-classical tunes on radio or television."

The greatest vacancy in the ranks of professional harmonica players is among those who will play the background to songs, Levene insists.

The present opening for harmonica players, Levene says, is the result of World War II, when the German-made instruments became sky-high in price. The cost of harmonicas has dropped since then, he says, and they are now accessible to everyone.

"I don't start them off with too many exercises, though," he says. "I give them songs to play and practice on right away. Just before Christmas, I gave one of my beginners 'Silent Night' to play. He read it from music notes, and played it correctly when the lesson

Bristol High Blows Five-Point Lead To Lose to Pennsgrove

Bristol High "blew" a five-point lead in the last four minutes of playing last night and bowed to the Pennsgrove High quintet, 58-54, on the local court.

The Warriors had a 51-46 lead after Bob Strobele had scored a field and foul goal but the undaunted Jersey team scored four points in less than two minutes to take a 52-51 lead. From then on, Pennsgrove managed to hold its edge although with less than 50 seconds, Bob Strobele had cut the lead to 56-54.

Bristol was beaten despite the outstanding efforts of Strobele and Bob Braker. Strobele scored 31 points on 13 field goals and five fouls while Braker stood out defensively. Both Strobele and Braker were credited with four assists.

Pennsgrove's best was "Click" Haines who maintained his average of 25 points per game by connecting for 27 points on 11 double-deckers and five fouls. It was the sixth win for Pennsgrove against one defeat. Bristol's mark is now 4 and 3.

It was one of the best games played this season. Until mid-way in the second quarter, the lead had changed hands five times with the score being knotted on two occasions. Half-way in the third quarter, the game was again tied twice with Pennsgrove taking the lead as the quarter ended. The finale was close all the way.

The visitors started off fast but Bristol took the lead at the end of the first quarter. Silvio Martelli started the scoring with a field goal and when Don Bragg followed it was 4-0. Strobele's first point was a foul. Bragg retaliated for Pennsgrove and Martelli's fielder made it 7-1. Glenn Taft increased it to 8-1 but Strobele and Manzo clicked for two-pointers to reduce the lead to 8-5. After Haines scored his first field goal, Harold Loud made two fouls for Bristol and when Fred Kornstedt converted Strobele's pass into a double-decker, the score was 10-9. Ello Chiacchio made it 12-9 but Strobele scored twice and Loud once from the floor to give the Warriors the first quarter lead, 15-12.

On a tap, Taft made the score 15-14. Strobele added a foul to the Bristol total. Haines dribbled in to score to deadlock the count at 16-16. On a pass from Strobele, Kornstedt counted under the net, giving Bristol a short-lived 18-16 lead as Bragg tied it for the invaders. Haines put Pennsgrove ahead but Frank Manzo knotted the count at 20 with an under-the-basket shot. Haines again put Pennsgrove in front with Chiacchio making it 24-20 and Haines, 26-20. Strobele scored a field and foul but Haines got two points back for Pennsgrove. Loud scored for Bristol and after Haines converted a foul, Braker scored for Bristol, the count then being 29-27. Haines was good on a foul after dunking a two-pointer. Strobele scored a two-pointer. Taft and Haines scored fast goals for Pennsgrove and Haines' foul shot made the half-time score, 37-29.

Bragg increased the Pennsgrove lead to 20 points with a fielder. Strobele and Kornstedt scored for Bristol. Bragg added two more to Pennsgrove's total. Strobele scored on a tap-in and followed with a successful foul try to make the count, 41-36. Haines made another foul. Braker passed to both Strobele and Loud for field goals and when Strobele scored under the net, the teams were tied at 42. Bragg put his team ahead at the whistle, 44-42. Bragg built the Pennsgrove lead to four points to begin the last quarter. But Strobele scored two field goals to tie the score at 46. Bristol went ahead on Kornstedt's field goal. On a pass from Manzo, Strobele scored and was fouled. He converted to give Bristol a 51-46 edge. Taft cut the lead with a two-pointer. Haines scored from side court to slice the edge to 51-50. Clint Lehman's shot under the basket gave Pennsgrove the lead, 52-51. Haines dribbled in to increase the margin to 54-51. Braker made one of two fouls. On a pass from Bragg, Haines scored the back-breaking field goal. Strobele made a double-decker to make it 56-54 but before it was over Haines and Taft tabbed foul goals for the Jerseyites.

Delhaas, With Record Of Six Wins in a Row, Defeated by P. S. D.

MT. AIRY, Jan. 8.—The six-game winning streak of Delhaas High School was broken by the Pennsylvania School for Deaf yesterday as Coach Stanley Dick's team went down to a 59-37 defeat.

The PSD boys were entirely too much for Delhaas as it outplayed them from the start. The winners controlled the boards both defensively and offensively.

PSD, coached by Erwin Antoni, had a 19-10 first quarter lead and 32-15 half-time lead. At the end of the third session, the score was 48-26.

Jim Bustraan was high for Delhaas with 15 points, while Runyan and Zushin scored 14 and 10 points, respectively, for the winners.

Molded Plastic Boat To Have World Premiere

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 8.—A new type of boat made of molded plastic will have its world premiere at the Philadelphia Motor Boat and Sportsmen's Show, March 6-14, at Convention Hall, it was disclosed today.

Clinton W. Smullen, secretary of the show, said the new 26-ft. plastic boat, designed and built by Kent Hunter and named the Hunter-Craft, will be on display for the first time anywhere at the upcoming show.

Smullen went on to say that Chris-Craft, Owens and Matthews, well-known boat manufacturers, will have on display 42-ft. cruisers, the largest boats scheduled for the show.

Many other outstanding makers of boats and marine equipment will also have displays of their products. Among the many exhibits will be one devoted to marine radio equipment, which will include shore-to-shore telephones.

"More boats will be displayed in the 1953 show than ever before in the show's history," Smullen said. "The sale of exhibit space is far ahead of any year we've ever had," he added.

Pennsgrove Jayvees Defeat Bristol Jrs. By Score of 49 to 44

In the first game on the local high school court last night, the Penns Grove Junior Varsity team bested Bristol High's Junior Varsity, 49-44, in a closely-fought tilt.

Bristol came within two points of tying the score in the last two minutes but a field goal and foul by Dean Boyce decided the game for the Jersey boys. Bristol had a bad third quarter in which but one field goal was scored, that being by Dick Crosby.

Crosby led the Bristol scorers with 22 points, while Bruce Carlson paced Penns Grove with 14 points.

But... how does the news get to the newspaper?

Time after time, it gets there by telephone. To reporters and editors, the telephone is as indispensable as paper and ink. Yet reporters and editors, like millions of other people, take telephone service for granted.

That's the way it should be. That's the way telephone men and women want it to be. The fact that you can take good telephone service for granted means they're doing their job the way you expect them to do it.

Interest in Open Hearths Manifest by Residents

Such is High-Temperature Bath in Which Iron and Steel Scrap Are Refined Interest in open hearth furnaces has been enhanced here with the locating of the Fairless Works of U. S. Steel in Falls Township.

The open hearth furnace is a high-temperature bath in which iron and steel scrap are refined to make steel. Limestone and iron ore are also charged into the open hearths. The limestone, when melted, combines with many of the impurities in the bath and forms a slag which floats on the surface of the molten metal. The oxygen in the iron ore combines with other impurities to form gaseous oxides. The slag is flushed periodically into slag ladles.

When the steel has reached the desired chemical characteristics, it is tapped from the furnace into a huge ladle. Alloying materials are added as required in the furnace, or in the ladle, as the steel flows from the furnace.

The ladle is equipped with a pouring nozzle in its bottom. The full ladle is lifted by a crane and positioned over ingot molds into which the steel is poured. This operation is called "teeming." When the steel solidifies, the molds are stripped from the ingots, which then go to the rolling mills.

An open hearth installation consists of the furnaces proper, checker chambers where the air is preheated, charging machines, ladles, cranes and other auxiliary equipment. Gases from the furnaces are hot, and this heat is utilized by waste-heat boilers to produce steam for process requirements.

At Fairless Works there are nine open hearth furnaces, each with a capacity of 275 tons per heat. The shop will produce 1,800,000 net tons of steel annually.

The open hearth furnaces are designed to burn either oil or tar, or a mixture of oil and tar, through dual burners.

The open hearth shop has four 15-ton charging machines. The shop is provided with the world's largest steel-ladle cranes, with 450 tons capacity.

Hot gases flow to nine waste-heat boilers and then through electrostatic precipitators to prevent air pollution. There are two precipitators to each furnace. The open hearth stacks are 225 feet high.

"Auto" Clubs Will Oppose "Use" Tax on Vehicles

To Vigorously Battle Any Attempt During 1953 Legislative Session

The 57 AAA Clubs of Pennsylvania with their nearly 450,000 members will vigorously oppose any attempt during the 1953 Legislative Session at Harrisburg to enact a "use" tax on automobiles.

This was announced today by R. B. Maxwell, Secretary-Manager of the Pennsylvania Motor Federation-AAA, the largest state organization of motorists in the world.

Maxwell declared that such a tax would be unconstitutional in view of the "Good Roads" Constitutional Amendment passed in 1945 to halt diversion of motorists' taxes.

A use tax on automobiles, trucks and buses has been suggested as part of a "patch-work" tax program designed to raise upward of $125,000,000 of additional funds for the 1953-55 biennium.

"Any revenue raised through imposition of a use tax on motor vehicles would violate the spirit of the 'Good Roads' Constitutional Amendment and would also be a violation of trust," Maxwell asserted. He pointed out that citizens voting for the Amendment were under the impression that they were protecting motorist taxes from being used for other than highway purposes.

The proposed use tax would also discriminate against the already heavily taxed motorist, Maxwell claimed. "The motorist," he said, "already shoulders more than his share of the tax burden. In addition to the tax he pays when he buys a car, he pays a license fee to own and operate it and he pays state and federal taxes on gasoline, oil, tires and accessories."

"There is a constant demand for better highway facilities," he stated. "Any additional tax burdens placed on the motorist should be used strictly for the improvement of our highways and not for general fund purposes. It would be a gross injustice to motorists to tax them for general fund purposes when the State Highway Department claims there are not sufficient funds for necessary road construction."

Girl Scouts were organized Mar. 12, 1912.

STYLE WISE

By Phyllis Battelle
(INS Woman's Editor)

NEW YORK — (INS) — Dame fashion, after spending a year floundering around town in an air of pink whimsy, has turned over a new leaf.

In 1953, she promises, she will be a bit more reserved. Not stuffy, understand, but decidedly more sensible.

The year 1952 was one of those 57 varieties sort of periods in fashion; with each style just a bit more saucy and feminine and fluff than the next.

Full Skirt

The full skirt was definitely the silhouette of the era, the "middy look" notwithstanding.

January, '52, opened up with what threatened to be an onslaught of skinny skirts and flat-chests. The big talk about a "revival of the flapper look" began—talk of a "flapper look" has been making the women's pages for two years now, and each season it never quite materializes because the American woman just won't buy it, thanks so much.

Consequently, though the rumors were big, the impact of slim skirts was small. A conservative, easy-fullness look became the early spring fashion silhouette.

Fabrics were the big news. And when fabrics are the big news, styling is simplicity personified. Crepe was a comeback fabric that delighted the drawing pencils of the top designers and thrilled their customers, who suddenly found that they could buy high-fashion in crepe at a reasonable price. The imported wools and silks of the last few seasons had just plain cost too much.

But on the more elegant side, there were luxury satins and brocades and laces that nipped into a lady's budget but gave an air of regality to the winter fashion scene.

Big Belts

Along came elasticized belts, the largest fad in accessories in a decade. And with them, of course, came wide skirts because what's the point of having a teeny waistline unless you really exaggerate it with a swirling skirt?

The wide skirt got wider as the temperatures got higher, so that by mid-spring a lady could count her compliments in crinolines. As many as 10 crinolines were worn under cocktail and evening frocks.

With this romantic turn of picturesque events, dame fashion got giddier than ever. She began wearing cottons peppered with rhinestones and colored jewels, long dangle earrings and many-clip bracelets, and jewelry designers went so far as to advocate the wearing of two pairs of earrings at a time.

Colors were frosty or stark—pinkish, bluish, greenish, usually with an overtone or an undertone of another shade; or black and white in dramatic contrast.

By autumn, many designers felt it was a time for a change, but the American woman was becoming accustomed to her elastic-covered waistline and hips-out skirts. So though the narrow look came back to power, technically, the little woman is still going about town in a modified version of her summertime fancy.

Change Coming

Now, however, there's really going to be a change!

Dame fashion, with almost every big-label designer in the books, is in earnest about this slender look: an easy, graceful, comfortably slender look.

Predictions for spring and summer call for more classic, straight-line elegance with fabrics once again the chief fashion of interest. Skirts will be a trifle longer—say 12 inches from the floor—to accentuate the long lean effect. Waistlines will be gently indented, with the wide, wrapped and tiny look of elastic belts "going out." Necklines will be new, but neither here nor there. They'll be spread out to cling to the body at some point along the shoulder-line—neither very high nor very low.

A comfortable look, if not a particularly flattering one. The effect of the tops of dresses will be all width. The effect of the skirts all length and narrowness. The effect of the entire dame fashion wardrobe—elegant conservatism.

to locate in this area. So—up goes the average again.

There have been many cases where fantastic sales have been made, some already much publicized in magazines and other publications, and our classic example is one that happened in the latter part of 1952. We sold three lots to three buyers for $4200, and before two of the lots had been fully paid for and deeds given, the three lots were sold to a very well known developer and builder for $18,000. Of course the three lots were needed to provide extra frontage on a through highway for the adjoining farm already purchased by the developer and the final price did not represent the real value of the lots as ground—that value is still $4200.

The building of new Levittown and Fairless Hills homes definitely has had an effect on the sale of older type homes in lower Bucks county. During the latter part of 1952 sales for such homes fell off considerably. However, there always will be buyers for the historic old Bucks county homes although in the lower Bucks county area there are comparatively few remaining. Also, there always will be buyers for country homes with large lots in communities other than planned communities such as Fairless Hills and Levittown. That has been our experience. Prices on old homes—homes built during the past 25 or 30 years—will probably go up and down during the coming year but we do not expect any great changes in prices.

Because of the extraordinary developments in lower Bucks county new problems are being created every day—in traffic, transportation, school facilities, police protection, garbage, refuse and sewage disposal, in adequate water supplies, and very, very important for the individual property owner—in planning and zoning.

All these problems must be solved and usually they must be solved very quickly because there is not time now to do as we did in the old days—think about things for a year or so before taking some action. Our municipal authorities should take advantage of every facility available in order to solve these problems in the way that will be best for all concerned. The Bucks County Planning Commission is one local facility that is available for consultation and advice and that Commission has been doing a great job during the past year, as its report will show. The Pennsylvania Economy League has been making surveys during the past few years and now has a lower Bucks County Branch to better serve the municipalities in this area. The League is available to all municipalities for surveys and studies. Every township or borough needs zoning and I think that all in the lower Bucks county area have zoning, or are working on it, except one township that should have had zoning at least fifteen years ago. All property owners should make it their business to see to it that their township or borough has a zoning ordinance—that is the only way to protect existing property values.

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

by Fulton Lewis, Jr.
(Copyright, 1952,
King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—In his inaugural address or at some appropriate time shortly thereafter, President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower is going to lay down the law to government regulatory agencies which have used business as a whipping boy for the past 20 years.

Eisenhower has already set his ideas down on paper — ideas that will constitute his declaration of philosophy for his administration — and discussions are underway to determine when it will be best to issue the statement.

For present and new members of such agencies as the Federal Trade Commission, the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Federal Communications Commission, the declaration will serve as a code of conduct during Eisenhower's stay in the White House. The President-elect will announce that he wants the regulatory agencies to continue policing business behavior in general, but that he also wants them to adopt a philosophy of helping business do a better job.

During the past 20 years, it is Eisenhower's belief, many of the federal regulatory agencies have mired themselves in the philosophy that their major function was to throttle business. This was accomplished by countless unnecessary rules and regulations which not only hampered the operations of many private concerns, but which required vast expenditures of time and money in complying with requests for reports or other documents to help federal investigators.

The President-elect will make it plain to agency heads and commission members that if they are not in agreement with his declaration their resignations will be accepted. Instead of being badgered, business is expected to get a boost from officials who are charged with keeping an eye on private enterprise.

The President-elect and his patronage advisers are keeping this in mind in making appointments below cabinet rank. For instance, Lyle Newcomer, prominent California attorney and campaign aide to the Republican National Committee, is to be appointed chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Newcomer is in agreement with Eisenhower's plan for stimulating business instead of smothering it with regulations. The President-elect will also appoint Dillon Anderson, Texas cotton broker, to the important post of Solicitor General of the Justice Department.

John Minor Wisdom, of Louisiana, is to be named head of the Anti-Trust Division of the Department of Justice, another post that has been used under the Democratic administration to chastise what the party labels the "economic royalists." Wisdom was an early Eisenhower supporter. He, too, concedes that too much regulation of business, too many anti-trust suits impede economic progress. He will not be inclined to use the Anti-Trust Division of the Justice Department as a political weapon, as it has been used frequently in the past.

Thurston Morton, of Kentucky, is a third Southerner who will be asked to join the Eisenhower administration. Morton will be offered the job as Assistant Secretary of State in charge of Congressional Relations. He is a present member of Congress who did not run for reelection this year.

Morton was selected over Senator Owen Brewster, of Maine, who is available for a federal appointment. Brewster was defeated in the primary election. He is reported by friends as being interested in a State Department post, preferably one where his contacts in Congress would be useful. Morton, however, was decided upon as a result of the plan to give the South a stake in the new administration. Brewster presumably will be offered another position, since most Republicans think highly of his political acumen, which makes his presence in Washington desirable.

The net result of Eisenhower's appointments to date, and those contemplated for the near future, is to convince business interests that the Republican party's attacks on excessive government regulation consists of deeds as well as words. The Democrats will soon take up the cry that the Eisenhower administration is run by big business, which may be true and if it is the nation can be assured that it will be operated in an efficient manner. This will be a noticeable contrast to what has been visible in Washington during the past 20 years.

Crime in Bucks County

Two of the wings of the prison wall to the outer wall. The control of the electric wiring on the wall is controlled from the prison office by a siren and lighting system. The flood lights used in lighting the prison yard are also controlled from the prison office by a system of light bulbs showing whether the lights are properly lit in the yard. All cells occupied by male inmates of the prison have been reinforced with steel backs or concrete. Time clocks have been set up in the prison and prison yard which are checked hourly during the night, as a check on fires or any prison breach. All other repairs and paintings have been completed to keep the prison in good physical condition.

This has been a very busy and successful year with the operating of the prison garden. We have produced more vegetables than in previous years. After using the vegetables we need for the feeding of inmates in the prison the balance of the vegetables are either canned or frozen. At the present time we have plenty in store until the next season. This includes such vegetables as onions, carrots, beets, green and wax beans, tomatoes, tomato juice, rhubarb, corn, lima beans, celery, pumpkins, cabbage, spinach, berries, squash and asparagus. Many other items were grown during the summer months and used as needed. Enough jelly was made to supply the prison for a year. Peaches and apples were bought very reasonable and were canned by the inmates. The beef, pork and milk was secured from the Neshaminy Manor Home as required. We produced our own eggs and poultry.

The inmates this year have done more outside County work than any other year in the past. It has amounted to 25,000 man-hours of work, this is equivalent to 3,000 8-hour days. Work was done at the Neshaminy Manor Home, the County Parking Lot, the Court House and other County Buildings, also work under the supervision of Albert P. Darrah on County Bridges. We also helped in removing of snow and cutting of lawn at the Court House, beside the prison farm work.

Crime in Bucks County is continually on the increase. This is evident by the number of persons committed to the prison during the year 1952, when the total reached 735 commitments, 33 of which were females. This is a total of 68 more than last year, and 194 more than during the year 1950.

We endeavor to arrange for a position on the outside whenever an inmate is required to have a position in order to be discharged or paroled. It is difficult in many cases for an inmate confined to the prison to pay his costs and fine when he has no money or any way of obtaining money until he has a position on the outside. It is equally as difficult for an inmate to have a letter of employment or sponsorship from outside of the state especially when they have no one on the outside to do this for them. We spend much time and effort in seeking to help the inmate in this way, and feel it is our duty and responsibility to do this when the inmate tries to perform their work whether inside of the prison or outside doing County work, and we know the inmate appreciates our effort in most cases.

Church services have been held weekly. Any inmate requesting an interview with a preacher or priest is granted permission. Some of the better inmates having been allowed to work on hobbies during their spare time have done beautiful work.

There have been many inmates committed during the past year who were mentally unsound, which required the placing of some in mental institutions. Others had body ailments which required hospitalization, and special medical care. The caring of this type inmate while in the prison is the prison personnel's responsibility and many times has been an unpleasant task. During the greater part of the year we have had inmates who were charged with murder confined to the prison.

The guards of the prison as well as myself want to thank the County Commissioners and those in authority for the wonderful co-operation given during the past year in permitting us to secure the things needed for the proper care of this institution and its inmates.

It has always been my opinion that knowledge of this information is of much value and importance to the tax payers of Bucks County, as it reveals to them many of our problems, the type of prisoners, and what we are trying to do to accomplish rehabilitation.

The following is a list of the prisoners committed during the year:

Committed during 1952, 735; held for trial, 182; held for hearing, 226; sentenced by court, 163; sentenced by magistrate or precept, 381; female prisoners committed, 33; released on parole, 76; released on bail by quarter sessions, 51; released on own recognizance by court, 1; sentenced to Eastern Penitentiary, 19; sentenced to Glen Mills, 2; sentenced to Huntingdon Reformatory, 3; sentenced to Catholic reformatory, 1; sentenced to Camp Hill, 8; taken to Norristown State Hospital, 17; taken to Allentown State Hospital, 2; taken to Farview State Hospital, 1; taken to Muncy Industrial School for Women, 1; sentenced to Kisllyn, 3.

Returned from other institutions, 1; discharged expiration of court sentence, 14; discharged expiration of sentence by magistrate, 132; discharged by court or sentence suspended, 78; committed by the court for fine and costs, 19; fine and costs paid or remitted, 20; cases not-prossed, 2; inmate walked away while working on outside prison detail, 2; prisoners recaptured, 4; committed by the court to give bond, 2; released on bond, 2; held for other counties or states, 5; being a fugitive, 7; released on detainers or warrants, 27; attachments or bench warrants, 15; held for contempt of court, 18; served balance of parole, 5; returned for violation of state parole, 2; returned for violation of county parole, 3.

Applied for new trial, 4; sentenced to life imprisonment, 1; committed to await action of the parole board, 3; released on state parole, 9; committed for OMVWI, 48; colored males committed, 109; colored female committed, 1; awaiting action of Penna. State Parole Board, 10; discharged, charges withdrawn, 2; flat sentence by court, 28; inmate in Norristown State Hospital (treatment), 4; held for United States Army, 1; discharged (no true bill), 1; blood test, 52; House of Good Shepherd, 1; transferred to Montgomery County Prison, 13; held or serving a murder sentence, 5; prisoners on hand, January 1, 1953, 64; highest number of prisoners held at prison any one day, 95.

Respectfully submitted,
EARL D. HANDY.
